How Will You Vote?

An adjourned Council meeting was held on Thursday night. A number of ratepayers were present to meet Mr. Fox, of Calgary, who came to discuss the new water rate and help for positions. Many of the difficulties that had appeared at the previous meeting were cleared up and the offer of the company looks better than ever. A general meeting of the ratepayers of the town is called for next Wednesday, March 14th, when the whole matter will be explained and some definite expression asked from the ratepayers. It is hoped that the ratepayers will be present.

Presentation to Inspector Tucker

An interesting gathering took place on Saturday night in the Council Chamber, when about 20 of the citizens of the town gathered to bid farewell to Inspector Tucker, who, with the Royal North West Mounted Police, will be leaving Claresholm this week. Mayor Holmes called the gathering to order, and in a few well chosen words expressed the regard of the citizens at the removal of Inspector Tucker from the town. Speaking highly of the work that had been done by the mounted police, and the reputation the force had gained throughout the Empire, he said it was due to having such men as Inspector Tucker in the force, men who in a position that was subject to no such prejudice and criticism, could hold it with dignity and honor. Following the mayor, came Mr. Haslam, with a speech full of humor. He voiced the feelings of all present when he expressed regret at the disappearance of the R. N. W. M. Police, and the removal of Inspector Tucker from the town. Speaking of the value they had been during the early history of the Province, and their disappearance marked a special loss in the history of the West. At the conclusion of his address on behalf of the citizens of the town, he presented Inspector Tucker with a handsome gold mounted clock, beautifully engraved, as a token of the high esteem with which he is held by the fellow citizens, and as a reminder of the old friendships in Claresholm. Short breezy speeches were also made by Mr. J. R. Watt and Mr. Walker, of the Bank of Commerce, the latter referring particularly to the good work done by Mr. Tucker in the various Patriotic organizations. Replying to the many kind words spoken, Inspector Tucker said that he appreciated the gift not only because of its intrinsic value, but because it represented the kindly feelings and good wishes of his friends in Claresholm. He then gave an interesting account of the early history of the police force in the West, the part they took in suppressing the rebellion and in keeping order during the Klondike rush. While not boasting of what he himself had done, it was easy to gather that he had taken a very active part in keeping order during those very strenuous days in Western history. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker came to Claresholm in 1910, and have resided here continuously ever since. It is nearly 14 years, since Mr. Tucker joined the Mounted Police, and in another 18 months he will be pensioned off. Mr. Reynolds suggested that it would be very enjoyable to Claresholm people, if when he retired, he would make his home in Claresholm. To the Mr. Tucker replied that he had this in his mind, and it was quite probable that he would retire amongst his many friends in Claresholm.

WAS SEA POWER THAT SAVED THE ALLIED CAUSE

Application of Naval Strategy has been Practically Revolutionized

The Controlling Factor in the Whole War Proved to be the

Latent Power of Armored Squadrons

An interesting review of the part that sea power has played in the war has been given by the London Times. It says that while the principles of naval strategy have been the same for a century, their application has been so altered as to amount almost to a revolution. The first and most obvious teaching is that sea power has completely justified the confidence placed in it. The lesson that naval men have learned is given by the well corresponding of the London Times from London. ## Livestock Farming Wins

The Man Who Sticks to Mixed Farming Can be Certain of Success

There are too many farmers who try to be both in and out of livestock—in when livestock is a paying proposition and out when it is not. Others stick strictly to grain farming, and sell the better part of their own or their husband's farm in the form of grain, a wagon load at a time. The result is that they are poor. The man who sticks to mixed farming, however, is the one who keeps his own stock his farm his own. He has a steady income from his stock and support and sell, and he is always "in the game" never trying to jump in and out of the market. He usually brings and out again, and his own stock his farm his own. He has a steady income from his stock and support and sell, and he is always "in the game" never trying to jump in and out of the market.

No one before the war would have been so successful in the northwestern states, where the influence of the Grand Fleet was in the northern states, great armies were necessary to maintain and supply them could be moved in and out of the northwestern states. The lesson was enforced at the very beginning of the war, when the British fleet was maintained, even though an important battle had been fought without that fleet. ## Redskins in the Trenches

Iroquois and Algonquins Fight Side by Side in France and Flanders

The Indian Company of the 15th Middlesex Battalion, C. E. F., recruited and trained at London, Ontario, in 1914. It was the first unit of North American Indians to fight in the trenches of France. The Indians, according to letters received from the trenches, are the most of the most of the members of the company, writes V. D. Rowell, editor of the Indian Review. It is significant to observe that this unit of Indians is composed of tribes belonging to the Iroquois and Algonquian races, the inveterate and fearless allies respectively of the English and the French. The Indians in the trenches are fighting, against common foe, and united with them. The Indians in the trenches are fighting, against common foe, and united with them.

The writer says: "In the fields of action there is to be seen the interest of the Iroquois and Algonquian forces. The fleets of nearly all the ships of the German fleet are in the hands of the British. The fleets of nearly all the ships of the German fleet are in the hands of the British. Several thousand Indians have been enlisted in the various Canadian units, and most of them are fighting in the trenches of France. The Indians in the trenches are fighting, against common foe, and united with them.

SOME CLEAR FACTS REGARDING THE

COMMERCIAL POSITION OF CANADA

J. S. Dennis, of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, President

A Great Future for Canada, and Expects to See a Population

of Fifty Million After the War

Speaking recently before the New York Credit Men's association, J. S. Dennis, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway company, presented some facts relating to Canada, and expressed the hope that these would justify any organization in including us in the list of nations which could be counted on to stand up to the world.

"Canada, as you know, owns and occupies a large portion of the North American continent than is contained in the United States."

"At the present time the vast area contained within the boundaries of the Dominion of Canada is watered by a population of less than 8,000,000 people. However, it is estimated that by the year 1920, the population will be increased to 15,000,000 people."

"The ultimate development of these natural resources will, without question, be the result of the war, and the international business, within the boundaries of Canada, will be one of the other of the allies at the war, and the power will be increased."

"It is desirable that certain points on certain of the subject facts be mentioned, and the opportunities for future development."

"Canada has now reached a point in the war in which she is taking a part as a portion of the British Empire."

SOME CLEAR FACTS REGARDING THE

COMMERCIAL POSITION OF CANADA

J. S. Dennis, of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, President

A Great Future for Canada, and Expects to See a Population

of Fifty Million After the War

Speaking recently before the New York Credit Men's association, J. S. Dennis, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway company, presented some facts relating to Canada, and expressed the hope that these would justify any organization in including us in the list of nations which could be counted on to stand up to the world.

"Canada, as you know, owns and occupies a large portion of the North American continent than is contained in the United States."

"At the present time the vast area contained within the boundaries of the Dominion of Canada is watered by a population of less than 8,000,000 people. However, it is estimated that by the year 1920, the population will be increased to 15,000,000 people."

"The ultimate development of these natural resources will, without question, be the result of the war, and the international business, within the boundaries of Canada, will be one of the other of the allies at the war, and the power will be increased."

"It is desirable that certain points on certain of the subject facts be mentioned, and the opportunities for future development."

"Canada has now reached a point in the war in which she is taking a part as a portion of the British Empire."

"The Canadian trade is not so much as the British Empire, and the British Empire is not so much as the Canadian trade."

"The Canadian trade is not so much as the British Empire, and the British Empire is not so much as the Canadian trade."

Somewhere, in between the over-weight cars at exorbitant prices and the under-weight cars at figures that are frivolous—there is a value which is the "happy medium," equally fitted to your purse and its purchase.

If you pay more for your car than the price of the GRAV DORT you will not get proportionately more merit for money. If you say less, you will not get nearly so much saving in service! Two years of test and precaution and liberal designing preceded this car's appearance, before PRICE was even thought of. The result is a happy-medium cost for a superlative performance car.

SHALL WE, OR SHALL WE NOT

TWO gentlemen from Calgary recently met the town council and made a proposal to take over and operate the water and light system of the town. The terms of the contract would require that they be a franchise for ten years, when it would be renewable for another ten year term, or the town would have the option of buying back the system at a valuation. About three miles of the pipe line would be laid with steel or iron pipe this year, and the remainder would be completed in the near future. The rates offered by these gentlemen would be no higher than the town is now paying, but the town would have to buy gas, oil, hydrants for fire protection, and also street lights, at prices not yet ascertained.

The proposition on the face of it looks good, in fact almost too good. A fact that is not perhaps generally known by the taxpayers is that the steel pipe line was installed, it has gone behind about $10,000 per month on operating expenses alone, and of course the amount of the debentures as well. This together with the company that in a very short time a new pipe line will have to be laid means that the proposition is not so good as it appears.

The town has also reached the limit of its borrowing power, and even if more money could be obtained we could hardly stand the increase in taxes that would follow a big outlay such as would be required. The company who seek the franchise will do the whole of the financing and have also stated that they are prepared to put a sewer system in the town as well.

The town councillors and a number of citizens met last Monday to discuss the matter, and arrangements were made to hold another meeting later in the week.

They are not at present prepared to express an opinion as to the advisability of accepting the proposition. As a matter of principle we do not have in giving such franchises to private individuals, but there may of course be circumstances that would justify the town in taking this step.

A public meeting will, no doubt, be called shortly, and it is to be hoped that every taxpayer will attend.

Credits Act is to be administered by a non-partisan board. The Utilities Commission will in all probability constitute three members, and the other two will likely be nominated by the P. E. A. and the Rural Municipality organizations. There will be no remuneration for the work of the board per diem allowance and reasonable expenses. The man with the salary will be the general manager who will not be a member of the board. The man of necessity be an expert and doubtless great care will be taken in his selection. The men who will have to have expert knowledge will be the valuator, for upon their work will largely depend the smooth running of the machinery. Perhaps the purpose of the act could be better set forth in a few brief sentences.

The act will be administered without regard to party politics. It will follow in the main the system in vogue in New Zealand.

The limit for any one man to borrow is fixed at $5,000.

No man can borrow above 40 per cent of his security.

The loans will be on the long term basis for 20 or 25 years. The longer term the smaller the annual payments.

When a borrower makes his annual payment he is without out part of the principal as well as the interest.

Under the present system with company loans the interest is annually added at the expiration of the period of the loan the principal is left due.

Should any borrower become able to pay off his loan before the expiration of the period borrowed for the term the board will be given $10,000.00 to start with and must return to the legislature for further authority.

New Zealand loans are made for other than farm purposes. Alberta for the present will stick to agriculture.

New Zealand has loaned $5,000,000 of which $7,000,000 has been repaid. $11,000,000 has been paid in interest.

No doubt is found with the loan companies but the new act is sure to cause them to give better terms and to equalize the interest.

The board will have power to reject mortgage monies, repaid. This is thought to be better than accumulating a sinking fund.

Foreclosure proceedings are likely to be cheapened. This may hit lawyers but the farmers are not likely to worry.

The board will be required to make an annual report to the legislature and the provincial auditor will audit the books.

All members of the opposition who spoke declared the bill both practical and desirable.

JAPANESE ACTORS FEATURED IN MUTUAL DRAMA

Three noted Japanese actors, Kuran Kotani, Sueni Yamamoto and Kana Tanaka, have been especially engaged by Harry Horvitz for important roles in the Mutual masterpiece, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. The Japanese of John David, now playing at the Grand theatre, in which Kuran Wilbur stars.

Although the production is a purely American play, the script called for three Japanese characters, particularly the one in which Kuran Kotani has been a favorite throughout the Mutual system. Efforts to obtain three Japanese suitable for the roles proved unsuccessful until Mr. Horvitz's agents learned of the presence of Kuran, Yamamoto and Tanaka in San Francisco. They were reached by wire and quickly engaged for the parts.

All three have had considerable experience both on the speaking stage and before the camera. Kuran has been a favorite throughout the Mutual system and has had several years' experience before the Mutual and other members of the company.

He began his stage career in Japan at the age of 12 and at 18 was the idol of the kingdom. He came to America several years later and was immediately popular.

His film debut was made under the direction of Thomas H. Ince.

Gertrude Robinson Plays Girl of the Streets in Mutual Feature

Gertrude Robinson, whose work in Ingenious roles has won for her a host of friends and admirers throughout the world, is appearing at the theatre opposite Alexander Gaden in the Mutual masterpiece, De Luxe edition, which comes to the Rex theatre on Monday and Tuesday, March 12-13.

Miss Robinson for the first time in her life plays a girl in the street. Poured out of employment at the factory, the girl sinks into the underworld, and through a series of adventures with more than her usual pathetic interest. Through the ministrations of the girl is saved, becoming a member of the Salvation Army. When the minister tells her that by saving him, she will be able to save her mother, she is saved. The Gaumont Company provided over 1,000 extra people for the strike scene, and even transported the principal players from the winter studio at Jacksonville, Fla. to Aniston, Ala. where factory scenes were shot.

The directors of the company, and the attempt of the society women to "frame" the minister, form remarkable climaxes.

The supporting company includes Miss Lucille Taft, John Reinhard, Charles H. Travis, John Mackin, Henry W. Pemberton, Alan Robinson and other well known film actors. The cast in "The Quality of Faith" is the best assembled for a picture production.

At the Rex. Monday and Tuesday, March 12-13.
